

The Aerobatic Contest Registration System available at www.iacusn.org/acrs/ is a complete registration system for regional and the national aerobatic contests.

This presentation reviews many of the features of ACRS with screen shots and commentary.

ACRS has been used for the IAC National Aerobatic Championship for the past two years (2007, 2008). It was used for the Green Mountain, Kathy Jaffe, Ohio, East Coast, and Wildwood regional contests in 2008.

There are over 170 members registered with ACRS as of 12/30/2008, representing $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{3}$ of active competitors.

ACRS allows any number of contests. They appear in order of start date. Contests disappear from the list after the end date. The contest data remains in the database and may be accessed for historical purposes.

Any registered member can add a contest.

This form lets an IAC Chapter add a contest that it will sponsor. Please don't use this form to add a contest you think you know about that you would like to attend. Pass this url along to the contest CD instead. The system will log you as the administrator for this contest entry. Thank you.

Contest Registration

The system will use your account identity to store and retrieve contest registration information. It will copy your information from an earlier contest when you register for a new contest, and allow you to make changes.

After you complete this form, check your email. Look for a welcome message from admin@iacusn.org that contains your email address. We do it this way to confirm your email address. Enter your email address carefully.

Login using the link in the email. It is best to highlight and copy the password from the email to avoid being confused with 0's, i's with l's, l's with 1's, and upper case with lower case. If you have trouble, email yourself a new password.

Registration requires an account name, display name, and email address. ACRS mails an activation link and initial password to validate the email address.

The anti-robot Turing test appears on this screen and the password reset to prevent spamming robots from attempting to create an account. All other screens require an authorized user.

All fields on all screens are length limited for input. All user supplied data copied to SQL queries is processed to prevent SQL insertion attacks.
